Business Strategy and Planning*

It is imperative that project management professionals develop and utilize the critical relationship strengthening and communication skills necessary to build the solid relationships needed for project teams to excel. Improving project team dynamics isn't only possible, but is critical to reducing stress and averting unnecessary complications. You will be re-energized to more effectively communicate with and lead your team when you return to your project after this session, and you'll have specific tools to do so!

Using unique tools, interactive content, case studies/"best practices" and hands-on exercises, you will learn simple steps to:

- 1) Improve productivity and optimize project results by enhancing team positivity (dynamics)
- 2) Transform team communication by utilizing highly effective communication tools for success
- 3) Create and consistently implement team agreements with alignment, buy-in and accountability
- 4) Measure and improve project team's strengths and weaknesses
- 5) Create a development plan to create sustainable success for your project team
